DISTRIBUTION OF COLORED VOTES.

Six Counties in the State Have None-Marion County Leads.

There are six counties in the State-Starke, Marshall, Wells, Adams, Brown and Washington-that have no colored voters. Crawford and Pulaski counties have only one each, while those having two each number three-Franklin, Lagrange and Porter. Scott, Martin and White have three each. Noble and Warren have four each and Dekalb, Steuben and Huntington have five each. The largest number of colored voters, of course, is in Marion county, where there are 3,804. Allen county, with 18,363 white voters, has only 72 colored. while Vanderburg, with 4,000 less white vothas 1,726 colored, making it the sec ers, has 1,726 colored, making it the secrecently issued by the State, showing the enumeration of 1895, shows that the northern counties have comparatively few colored people in them, while the southern counties that are hilly also have few. The containing the cities show the largest numbers, but other counties that are level and contain considerable bottom land have a good sprinkling of colored

THE RUSE OF A WOMAN

IT RESULTS IN MRS. JOSEPH REESE OBTAINING HER CHILD.

E. Baerman, Mrs. Reese's Former Husband-Child Spirited Away.

By a successful ruse Mrs. Joseph A Reese, formerly Mrs. Baermann, of Chicago, succeeded in getting custody of her little girl, who had been placed in the Knickerbacker Hall, a girls' school, by her father, A. E. Baermann, Mr. Baermann says his wife secured a divorce without his knowledge while he was absent from Chicago on June 13. On the next day, he says, she was remarried, her present name being Mrs. J. A. Reese. Mr. Baermann claims he had no knowledge of the preceedings until he learned a decree of divorce had been granted his wife, giving her possession of the child, Kathleen, a girl eight years of age. He was unwilling his wife should retain custody of the little one and by mutual agreement she was sent to a school at Lake Bluff, a suburb of Chicago. About six weeks later the woman took the girl from the school and sent her to the home of Reese's parents, Covington, Ky. As soon as Mr. Baermann learned the facts he took the train for Covington and got the child. He brought her to this city and placed her in the Knickerbacker Hall, where she has been

Mrs. Reese learned a few days ago Mr. Baermann was in this city and came on at | ton, near Alabama street, known as the once for the purpose of getting possession | People's Home. A barber shop occupies the of the child. She went to Presecutor Wilt- front room, where two colored barbers pass sie and asked that Baermann be arrested the time shaving impecunious wayfarers for for kidnaping the girl. Mr. Wiltsie told a nickle each. The back room is perhaps her as the child had been brought to this could be maintained in the Criminal Court, but she would have to bring a civil suit for the custody of the child. She stated to him the Chicago court had given the girl into her custody and asked if she would be justified in taking her if she would be justified in taking her if she which are used for lodgers. Ten cents is could be located. Mr. Wiltsie replied he did on the street, under the circumstances, he would certainly take her at sight. In the meantime the assistance of a wompity for the mother, it is said, she con-sented to help in locating the girl. Wednesday night Mr. Baermann was in the office of his hotel—the Circle Park—when a note was handed him. It said the writer, who signed herself as Minnie, was waiting for him on the street below. Mr. Baermann says, "I did not know who 'Minnie' might be, but was a little curious and went down to meet her when I spoke to her she to meet her. When I spoke to her she told me I was not the man she expected to meet. I inquired how she came to know my name, when she replied she had been out with a man the night before who gave the name of Baermann and had promised to meet him that evening. After a few moments' conversation she complained of the cold, when I suggested she go up to the hotel parlors. She was unwilling to go into the hotel, but said she knew of a place we could go for a few moments' conversation. We went to Huegele's restaurant. The girl Hall and asked to see the little girl. She was informed the child had gone down town grabbed the little one in her arms and hastily left the house. She concealed herself in an alley until a carriage could be called, when she drove away. Mr. Baermann says he is convinced she took the Proceedings will be instituted at once to have the decree of divorce granted Mrs. Reese set aside. Mr. Baermann claims to have had no knowledge the case was to be tried on the day the decree was granted or he would have fought for the custody of the child. He telegraphed his attorneys, Byun & Weinchenk, to begin action for the annulment of the decree at once. He claims he has affidavits to prove his former wife is not a fit person to have the care of the child. He intimates she held improper relations with Reese before she was divorced He believes the court will review the proceedings and grant a decree of divorce in his favor and order the child turned over to him. Mr. Baermann says he has no criticism to offer whatever so far as the management of the school is concerned and holds it entirely blameless.

Mr. Baerman said, last night, in reference to the action of Prosecutor Wiltsie:

"I think it was Mr. Wiltsie's place to have kept his advice to himself after he told the mother of the child that no proceedings could be brought in this State, I understan he advised her to go and take the child if she knew where it was. He had no right to give such advice as this. He didn't know how well the child was being cared for, and it was none of his business."

SMITH'S CRIES OF PENITENCE.

His Punishment Light.

A night in a cell at the station house thoroughly convinced Fred Smith, the J.,

M. & I. freight conductor, arrested for wife desertion night before last, of the great folly he had committed, and yesterday morning he was thoroughly penitent. When the door of the cell room was opened and Smith saw his wife sitting in the police surgeon's office, fifteen or twenty feet away, he gave a loud cry of grief, so a bystander says, and dropped to his knees and crawled to his wife's side. He buried his face in her lap and implored forgiveness. Mrs. Smith was crying herself, and it was some moso loud were his lamentations and professions of penitence. One of the officers who witnessed the scene says he cried loud enough to be heard a square away. He pichim if she refused to receive him again, and promised she should never have further occasion to complain of his conduct. Mrs. Smith partially agreed to take him back. In the Police Court Smith said he knew he had done wrong, but had no intention of deserting his family; he expected to return to them, he said. In reply to a question from them, he said. In reply to a question from Judge Cox, Smith said he would go back to his family and they should never have fur-ther trouble because of him. As for the girl, she could go to work, Smith thought. Judge Cox told Smith that he had intended to give him the limit, $500 fine and months in the workhouse, but his wife had come to him and pleaded for leniency. Judge Cox scored him severely, and said he de-served severe punishment for deserting his wife and family in such a heartless manner, "but," he said, "in answer to your wife's pleas, and for the sake of your children, I am going to do what my conscience tells me I ought not to do, and inflict a light penalty. You will be fined $25 and sentenced to the workhouse for five days." Judge Cox lectured Smith severely for first deserting his family for the Miller girl and then expressing himself in such an indifferent manner as to what would become of her in her present misfortunes. The girl said she had not asked Smith to desert his wife, while on the contrary he induced her to go away with him. She was fined $10 and given five days in the workhouse. It is understood Mrs. Smith has implored the railroad officials to reinstate her husband, and that because of kindly feelings the officials entertain for her he will be al lowed to resume work when he has con his sentence. Smith voluntarily turned everything he possessed over to his wife yesterday, and will return to her when discharged. It seems the girl has been more unfortunate than designing. It is claimed letters were found among Smith's effects which she received from her mother, urging her to continue her relations with Smith. A dispatch from Columbus, Ind., says: "Frederick Smith and Lottic Miller are both well known here. The girl's mother still resides here, but the girl left here some months ago. She had gained some notoriety before she left and is generally believed to be more than eighteen years.

believed to be more than eighteen years old. Smith gained much unpleasant prom-to commit an abortion. Mr. Smith paid all of the funeral expenses and was afterwards arrested for his connection with the affair, but secured his release. When first known here Smith was working as a farm hand at Azalia and at that time was considered a very worthy young man."

COLUMBIA LEAGUE OFFICERS.

Spirited Contest-George Steiglemeyer Elected President.

The annual election of officers by the Columbian Lincoln League, last night, was attended by a spirited contest. There were two tickets, known as the Independent and Regulars, although the latter had but two candidates in the field. These were H. F. Reed for corresponding secretary and Thomas Gambolt for treasurer. The voting Steiglemeyer, 123; vice president, Thomas P. Shuffleton, 135; recording secretary, W. W. Milford, 134; corresponding secretary, Charles Egerton, 128; treasurer, Robert Bryson, 129. Reed and Gambolt, candidates on the regular ticket for the two latter offices, received 97 and 95 votes, respectively. The new officers will be installed at the first meeting of the league in January.

A TEN-CENT HOSTELRY

"THE PEOPLE'S HOME" CAUSES THE POLICE MUCH ANNOYANCE.

Chicago Gang That Undertook to Clean Out the Place-Arrests

Frequent.

There is a queer institution on Washingtwenty by thirty feet in dimensions. A long city from Kentucky no action of that kind | table, covered with oilcloth, occupies one which are used for lodgers. Ten cents is charged for a night's lodging, and the place not care to advise her, but would say if charged for a night's loughly, and the place the girl were his and he saw her is always crowded. Thursday night sixty men were scattered about on the cots of the second story or sleeping on the floor. Some an stenographer was secured, and out of were provided with mattresses, while others had nothing but a blanket; not very comfortable arrangements nor at all conducive to sleep, but then-as the proprietor says-"what can they expect for 10 cents?"

The place is a source of annoyance to the police. Thursday night, about 12:30 o'clock, two men came rushing upstairs at the police station and asked that officers be sent to the lodging house at once. One of them, a Swede, was highly excited, and so out of breath from running he could scarcely articulate. "For God's sake," he cried, "send some one over there at once. There is a gang of toughs fighting and threatening to wipe out the joint. One of them smashed me-for what I don't know. See my eye." told me she was a divorced woman with a boy four years old and wanted to put him in a school. I fell into the trap and exchanged confidences with her. I told her I was similarly situated and had a little girl the fight, and was badly cut and bruised whom I had placed in the Knickerbacker about the face. The blood was flowing free-Hall." That was sufficient for the young ly, and he looked like a prize fighter who woman, and as soon as she could do so had gone through a fracas and come out without arousing suspicion she left Baer- badly worsted. Steinrock, the wagon man, mann. She saw Mrs. Reese and told her and Clark, the driver, were the only officers where the child was to be found. Thursday | at the station house at that moment, and afternoon Mrs. Baermann, in company they were dispatched to quell the disturb-with a male friend, went to Knickerbacker ance. The proprietor of the place was surrounded by an angry crowd, all demanding their money be refunded. It seems four or to visit her father and would return at 5 five Chicago rowdles had gone into the place p. m. The mother returned at that hour, early in the evening to secure lodging, and when the little girl was sent to her. For- had paid for beds. They spent the evening tunately for the mother's plans, one of the in adjacent barrel houses, and returned to young ladies fainted in the next parlor. find earlier comers had been given the The others rushed out of the room, leaving beds they had bargained for. They tried to mother and child alone. The mother throw the sleepers out, when Keating, one of the proprietors, interfered. Keating is an Irishman and a powerful fellow, well conditioned to run such a place, but the Chicago gang was too much for him, and soon had him floored and were beating and kicking him unmercifully. Some one raised the cry of "police," when the gang rushed down stairs and demanded their money be refunded. The proprietor haggled with them until Steinruck and Clark arrived, and placed three of them, Fred Kannada, Tom Clark and Mike Phillips, under arrest. Kannada had a big revolver of the bull-dog pattern upon him, and was charged with assault and battery and carrying concealed weapons. The other two were charged with assault and battery. The Swede explained he had just come in the front door at the moment the gang were surrounding the pro-prietor, when one of the gang hit him over the eye and knocked his hat into a corner. He was held as a witness. Kannada was fined $20 in Police Court on the double charges yesterday morning, while his com-panions were fined $5 each. They were sent to the workhouse to serve out their fines.

The People's Home has changed hands several times recently. The owner rents the place by the day, at a daily rental of $4. Yesterday he demanded possession because of the trouble that has occurred and the frequent complaints which reach the police. Three or four men have been arrested there this week for thieving, and the place has an unsavory reputation. James Miller was arrested there last night on the charge of grand larceny. Detectives Stout, McGuff and Kaehn made the arrest. It is said Miller stole a pair of trousers and an overcoat from the Ross Block last night. According to the detectives, he is what is known as a 'room-worker." and is regarded as a good one. His plan is to go through a block. He enters all the doors he finds open without knocking. If the occupants are at home he states he is looking for some one, using a fictitious name—last night it was Jim Cook. If the people are not at home, he helps himself to whatever he can find. When arrested last night he had disposed of the stolen property, but it was recovered. SMITH & NIXON SELL OUT.

George C. Pearson Buys Up the Establishment of the Firm.

There was a stir among the music dealers vesterday when it became known that Mr. George C. Pearson had bought out Smith ments before she could make herself heard, & Nixon. The sale was brought about by Mr. C. L. Ament. It was broached Thursday and consummated yesterday. This is the third prominent establishment that Mr. Pearson has bought out. The first was M. A. Stowell, in 1881, and the second Charles Soehner, in 1883. The sale includes two hundred instruments and the valuable agency of the Steinway piano, as well as a large rental list. The cause of the sale is that the Smith & Nixon company have decided to concentrate their energies in the manufacture of instruments, and not give so much attention to the retail department, Mr. Pearson will keep both stores for the present, until the stock is reduced so that he can place all the instruments in his own ooms. All the employes of the Smith & Nixon company will be retained. The Smith & Nixon manufactory is fifty-four years old and its output is one thousand Smith & Nixon and two thousand Martin planes annually. By the new purchase Mr. Pearson will have the right of sale of nine makes of His house is now the oldest in the city, having a business life of twenty-

O'CONNOR HAD A COLD CHISEL.

Known Thief Was Trying to Decoy Cigar Packer.

Tom O'Connor was arrested last night for loitering and being a known thief. He says he had been to the Salvation Army Hall, and was on his way home when sent in. While at the Salvation Army he fell in with another young fellow, a cigar packer, and was trying to induce him to accompany him to South Illinois street. The cigar packer wore a valuable gold watch and had considerable money about him. When O'Connor saw the officers approaching he passed a heavy cold chisel and a big rock he had been carrying to the other man on some pre-tense or other. The clgar packer was ar-rested for carrying concealed weapons when the chisel and rock were found in his pockets. He is a boy about seventeen years of age, and bail was furnished by his employer. O'Conner is twenty years of age, and has been out of the workhouse but a few days. The police think O'Conner was trying to decoy the cigar packer to some dark street, with the intention of robbing

RECALLED BY THE DEATH OF MRS. GERADY NEAR LOGANSPORT.

She Killed Her Husband, and After Conviction Became Insane-Sent to a Hospital.

A local newspaper man recalls an interesting circumstance in the death of Mrs. Caroline Gerady, the insane woman who was killed by a Panhandle train near Logansport Tuesday morning. The woman became insane while confined in prison for

Her victim was her husband, an old resident of this city. Peter Gerady lived on Olive street for about twenty years and reared a family of four children, John, Mary, Anna and Peter, all of whom are now living here. Several years ago Mr. Gerady's first wife died, and he sold his Indianapolis property and went to Knox. Shortly afterward he remarried, and about five years ago was murdered. Suspicion pointed to his wife and her daughter, and they were arrested. On the trial it developed that Mrs. Gerady and her daughter had killed Mr. Gerady with a knife, and had then cut and bruised him with an ax. Mrs. Gerady claimed that her husband had come home and began to abuse her. Finally he attacked her, and she defended herself with a butcher knife. Her daughter, who lived some distance away, was present at the time, and went to her mother's assistance. The fight continued until the husband was driven or fol-lowed the women into the back yard. Finaily the daughter got an ax, and, assisted by her mother, the two of them completed

They then left the place and went to the home of the daughter, where they spent the night. It was twenty-four hours afterward that the dead body was found lying in the back yard.

Mrs. Gerady and her daughter were both arrested, and about a year later were convicted and sent to the Woman's Prison in victed and sent to the Woman's Prison in this city. Mrs. Gerady remained here for some time and was then declared insane, and was committed to the hospital for the insane at Logansport. Mrs. Gerady and her daughter never lived here.

INDIANIANS AT ST. LOUIS.

Thirty Rooms Secured for Indiana Delegation at the Planters'. Secretary Seeds, of the Republican State committee, who went to St. Louis to engage rooms for the Indiana delegation. returned yesterday. He says he secured thirty rooms on the second floor of the Planters' Hotel, with a large reception room adjoining. He says there are already indications that there will be probably a larger crowd at the coming convention than ever attended a similar gathering. In addition to these rooms for the State delegation many individuals have secured rooms for the convention. The Planters' House will be the Indiana headquarters, although the fact that McKinley and Reed have both engaged rooms at the Southern will prob-ably make that house a center of the con-vention crowd. The houses are only a block apart, however, and there can be little more interest at one than the other. Mr. Seeds thinks the people of St. Louis do not fully appreciate the magnitude of undertaking to care for a convention that will nominate a man for the presidency who will have so little opposition as to make the nomination practically an election. On account of this circumstance there will be a larger attendance at the convention than ever was known before.
